Art Focus: Chris Ofili

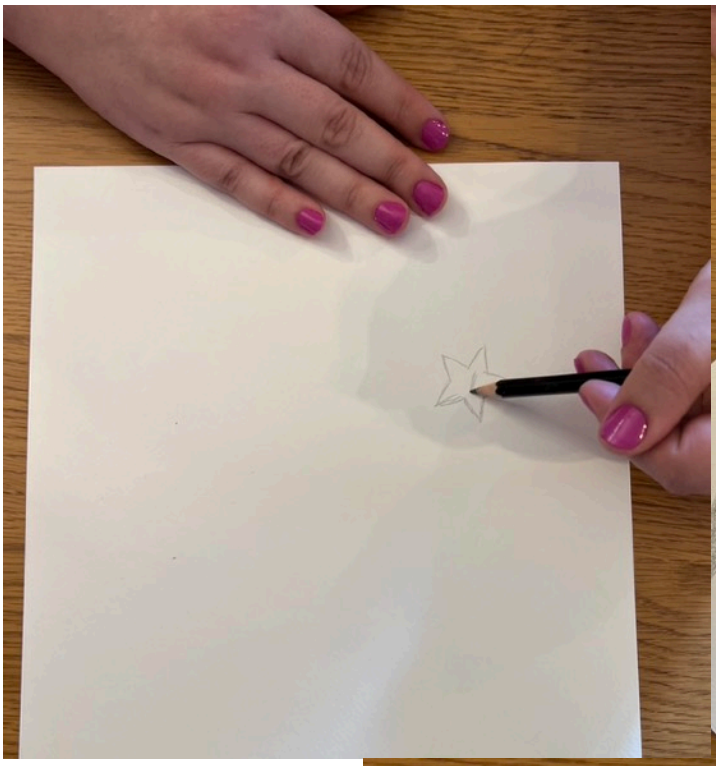

Taking inspiration from Chris Ofili why not create a pattern filled picture contrasting a simplified image over a contrasting background

Tools and Materials:

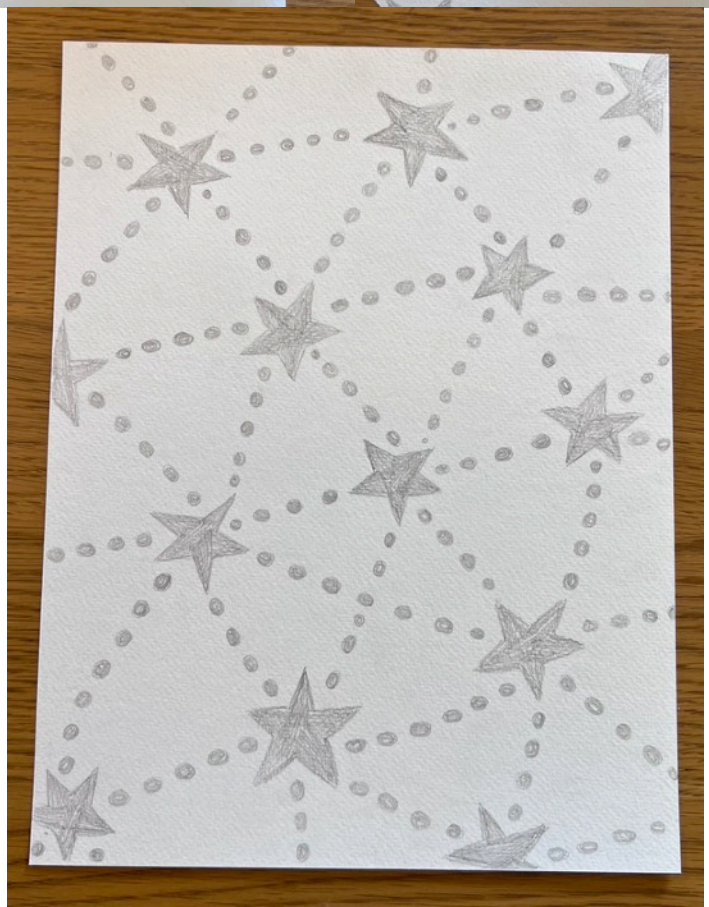

- Paper
- Pencil
- Felt Tips

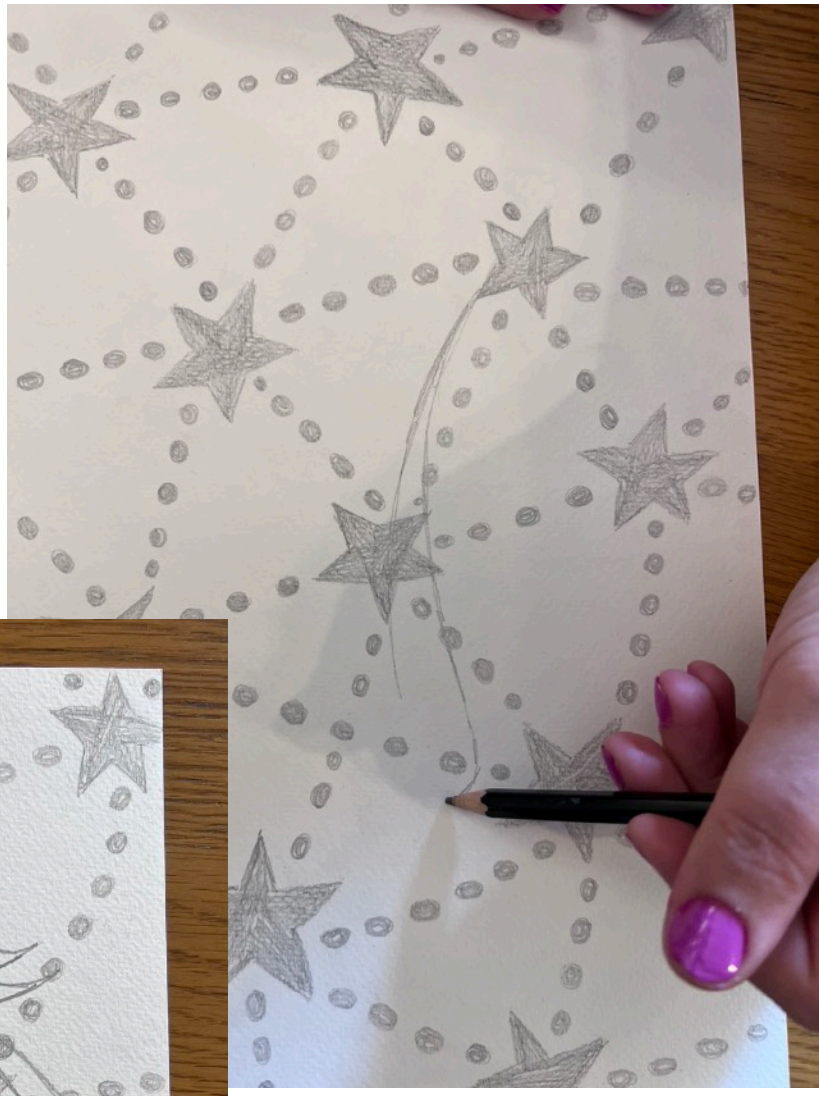

Chris Ofili CBE is a Black British Painter who uses mixed media to create his artworks - resin, beads, magazines collaged and even lumps of elephant dung. He also won the Turner Prize in 1998. Much of his work is multilayered built up with different patterns drawn, painted or collaged so we are trying to recreate that aesthetic. Start by sketching our a simple pattern like so in pencil

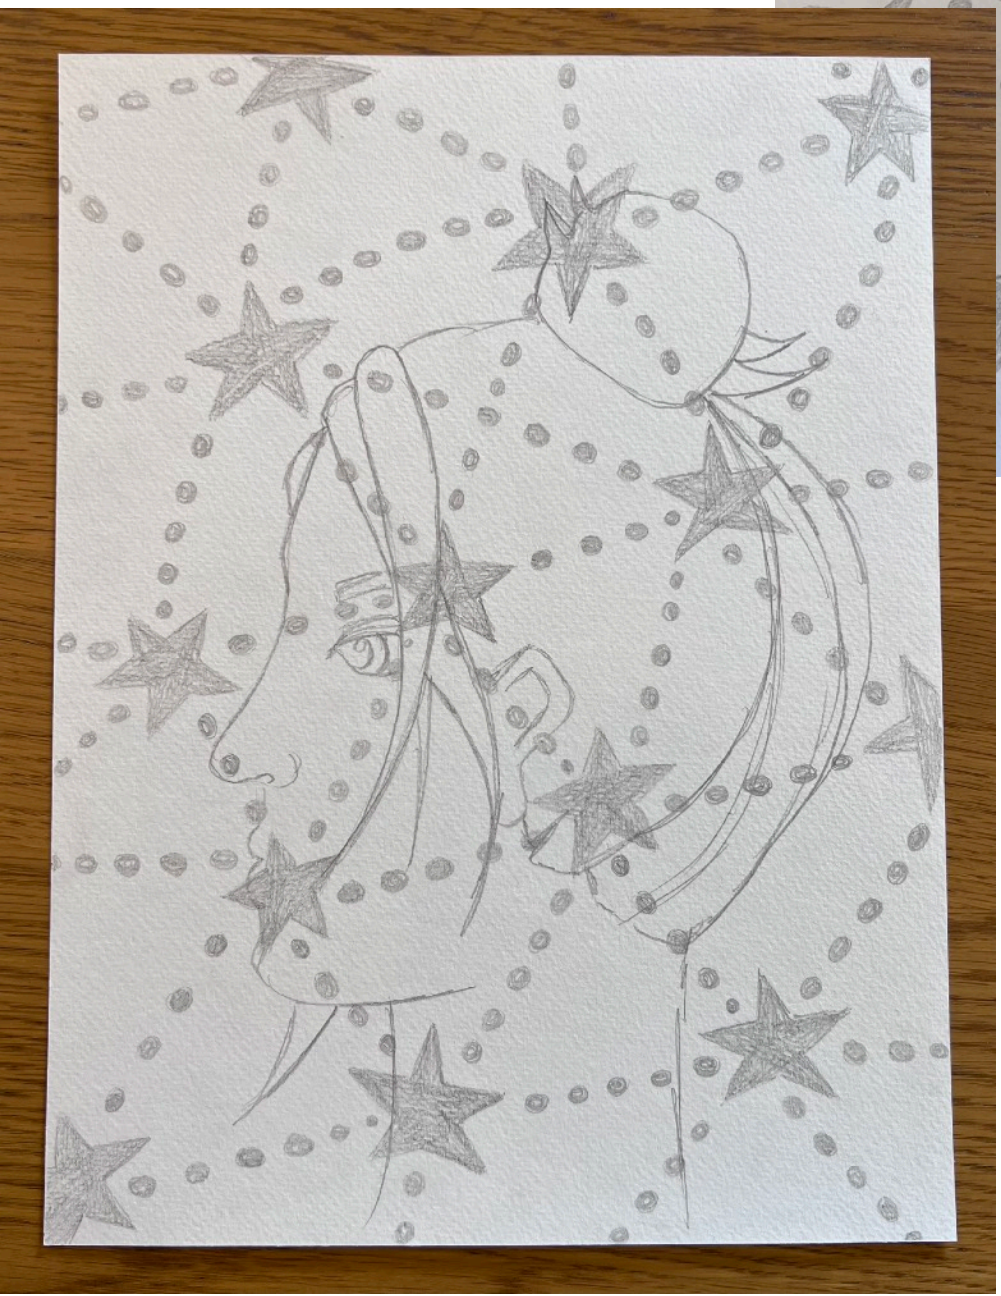

Once you have finished your background of pattern think what you would like to draw - we went for a simplified portrait

Once you are happy with your image you can go in with felt tips to outline, bolden and add colour to it, we also created another pattern for the background to contrast again the shape of the stars and the softness of pencil

There you have it your very own
“Chris Ofili inspired Artwork!”

Here is another we made to inspire you!
