Art Focus: Wade Zahares

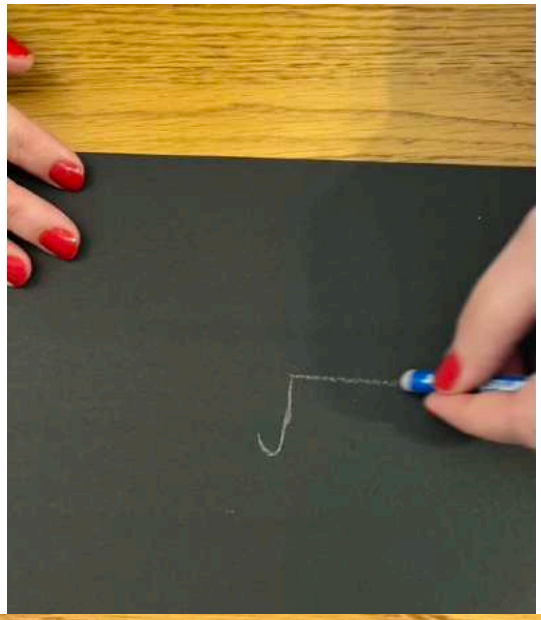

Taking inspiration from Wade Zahares, an American Artist who creates bold scenes from pastels why not create a Wintery Scene with different mark making

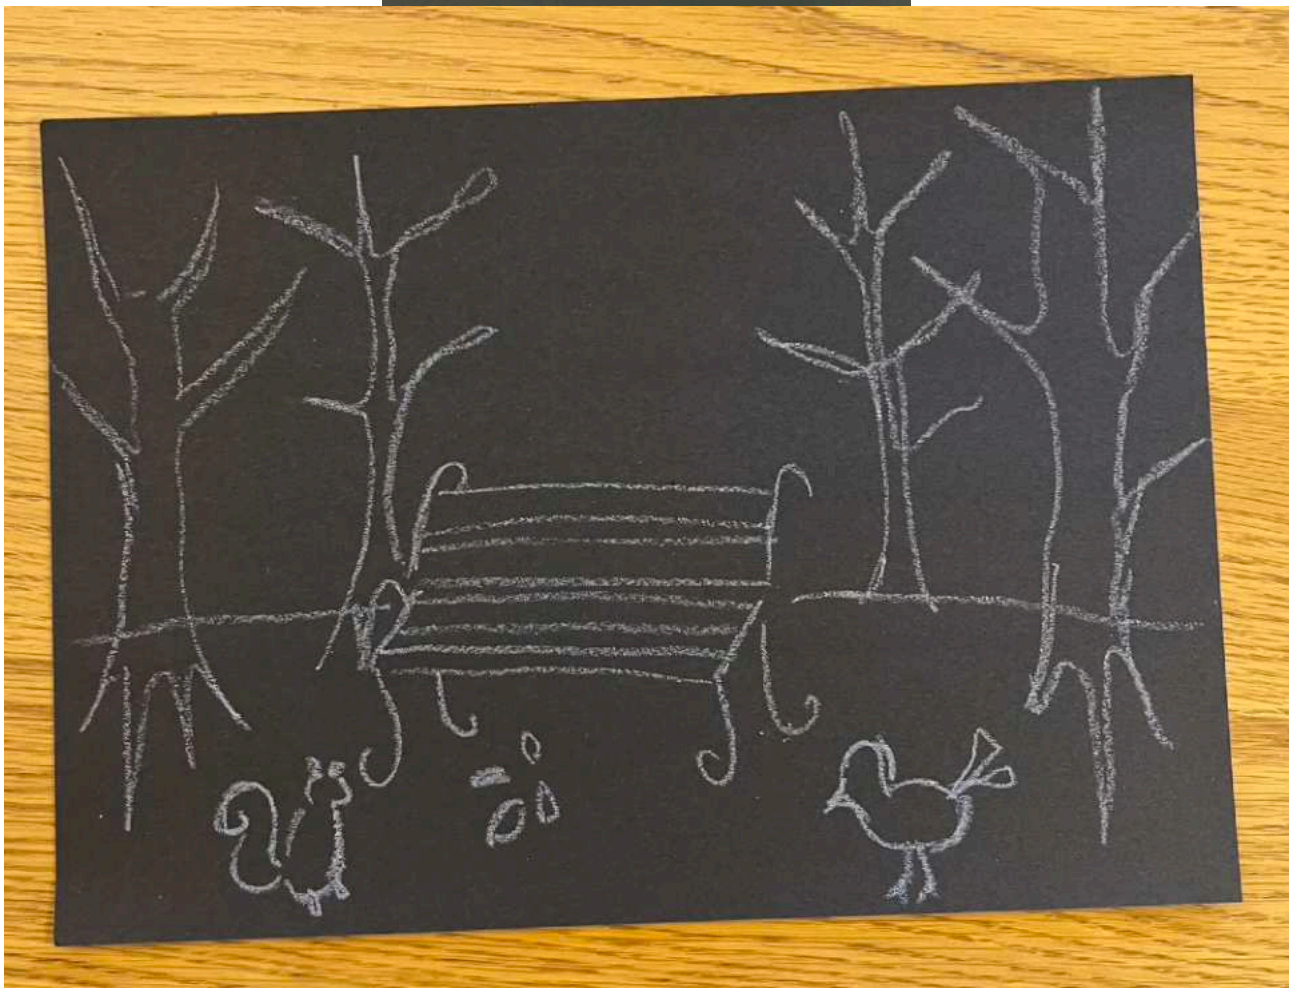

Tools and Materials:

- Black Paper
- Oil Pastels

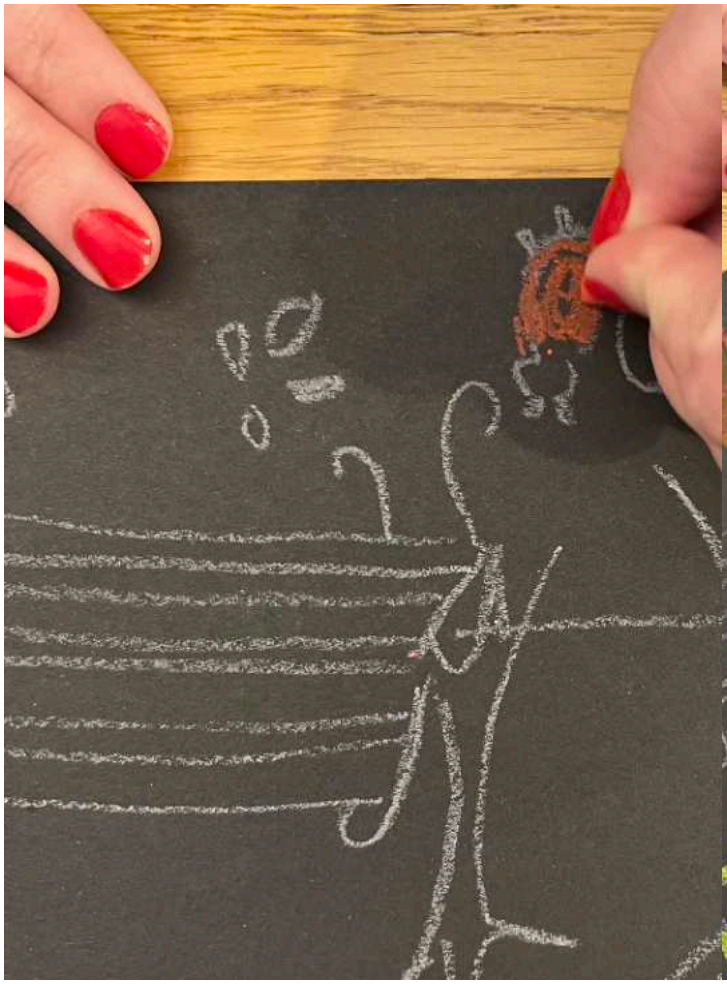

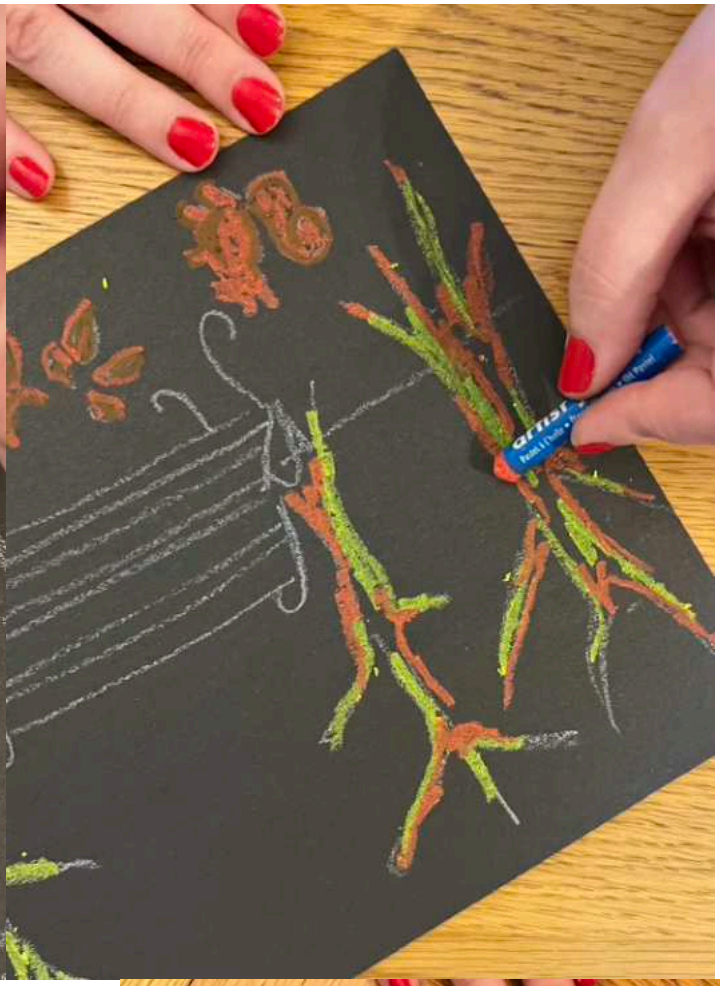

Wade Zahares does a whole range of different themes - many are drawings done outdoors but a good chunk are wintery scenes which come across bolder than real life. They don’t have to be realistic in scale or angle but they excite with a sense of joy in the colours. Look them up and see what inspires you! For ours we thought a bench in a park could be fun so started to sketch it out with the lightest colour so we can add to it like so

Once you are happy with your sketch you can start adding the colour - we did this one colour at a time to build depth

There you have it your very own
