Design your own Character

Taking inspiration from World Book Day on the 7th March why not come up with your own character as if you were designing your own book, are they a hero or a villain? What do they like and dislike - what would their story be about?

Tools and Materials:

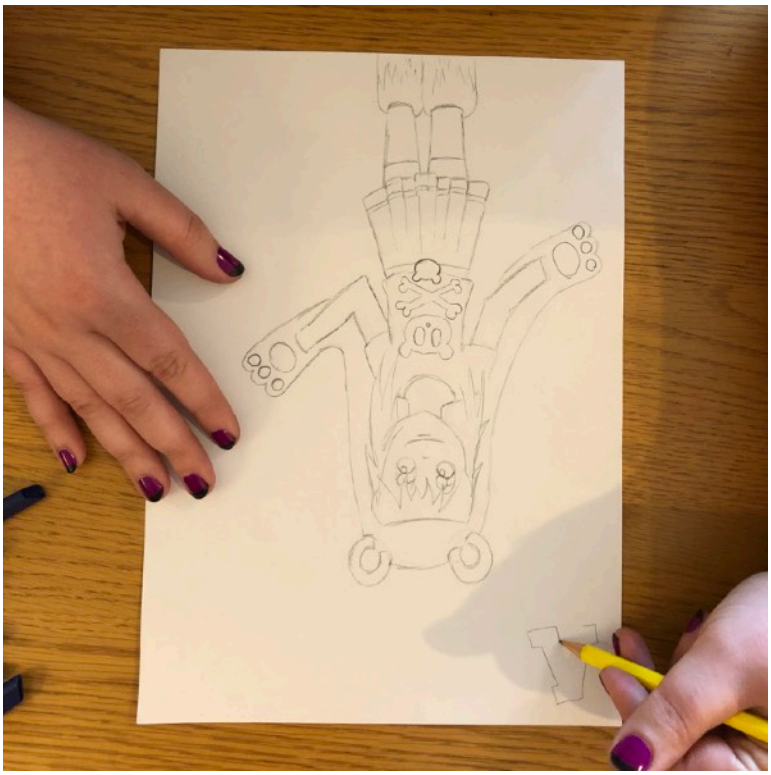

- Paper
- Pencil
- Felt Tips

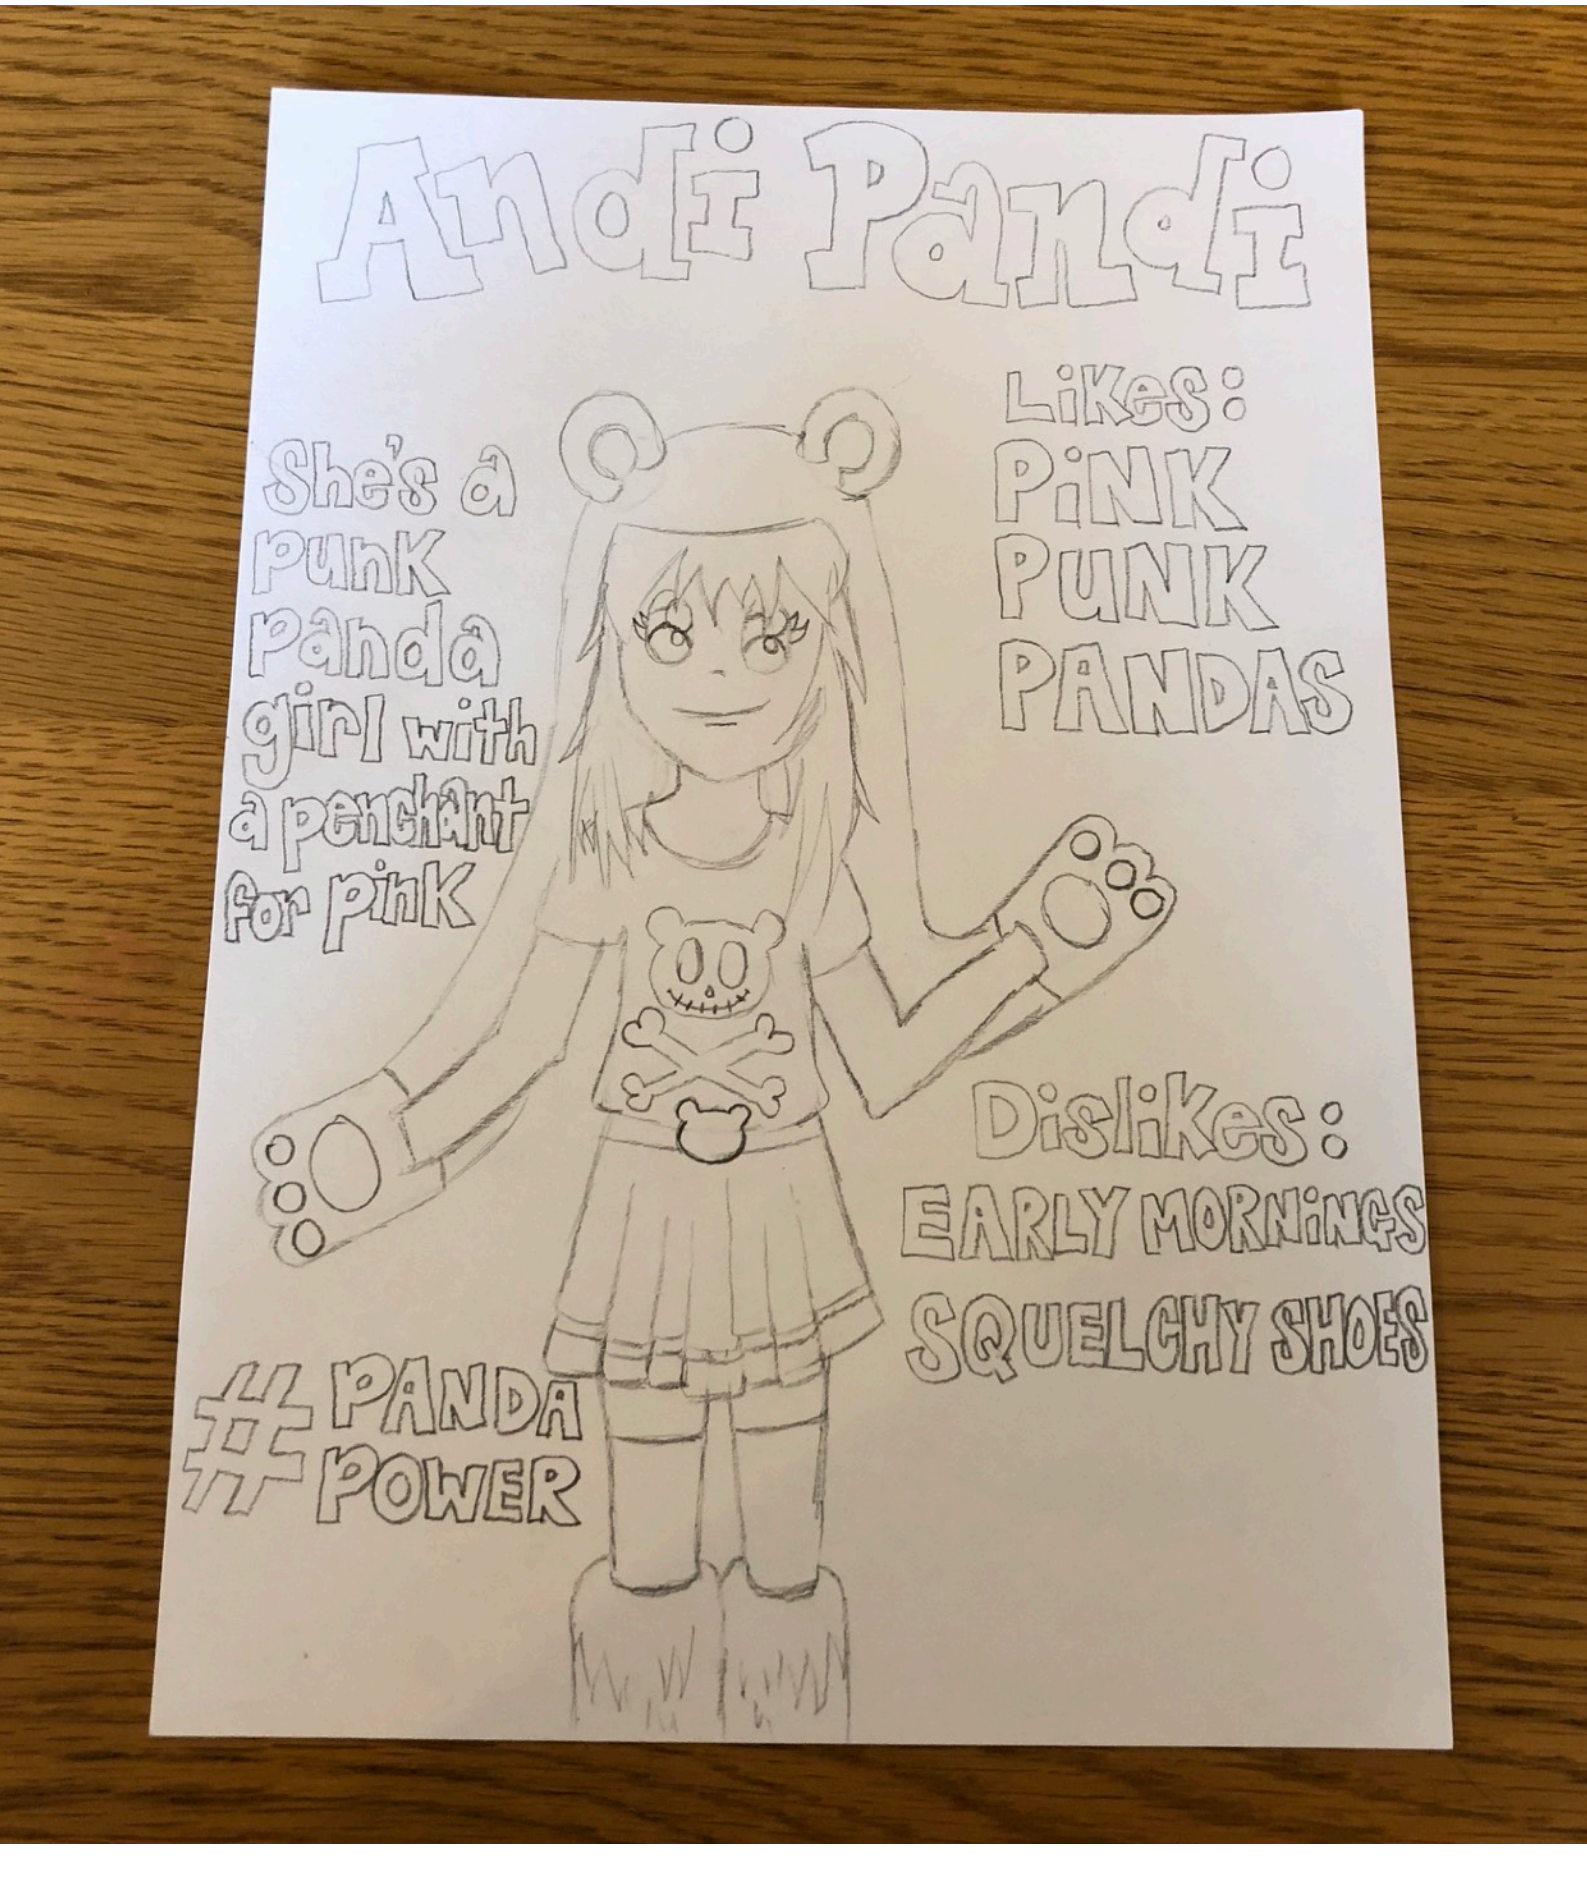

So what would your character be - are they human, animal, robot even? What do they look like - have a think about if you were reading a book who you would like to read about? Start drawing your character like so

What are they called? Does their name rhyme is it mystical is it even another language?

So once you have all that think about what their likes and dislikes are? The idea is that if someone else sees your character they can understand them easily!

Then you can get to work colouring your character in!

And there you have it your “Design your own Character”!

Here is another we made to inspire you!
