First of all choose what colour you want the pouch to be we went for orange to contrast against a white rabbit, but compliment it's blue ears. Take the paper for the punch and fold it in on itself like so then tape it along the join

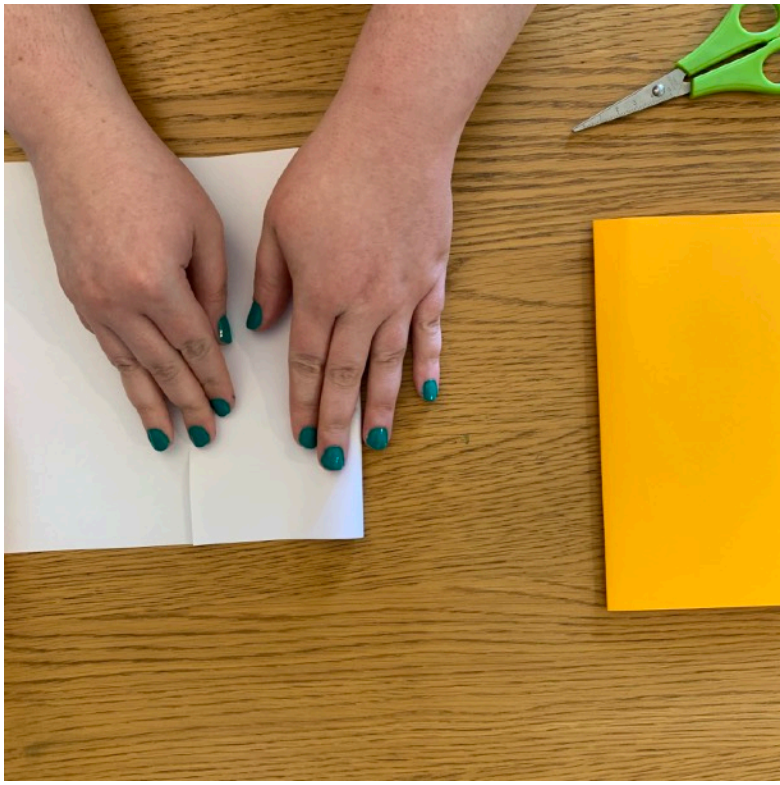

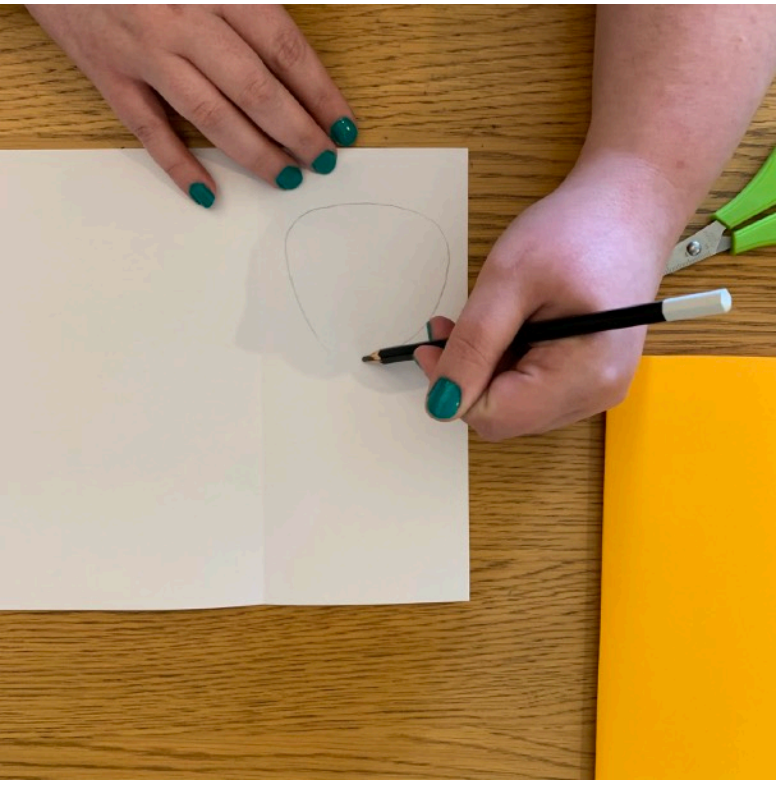

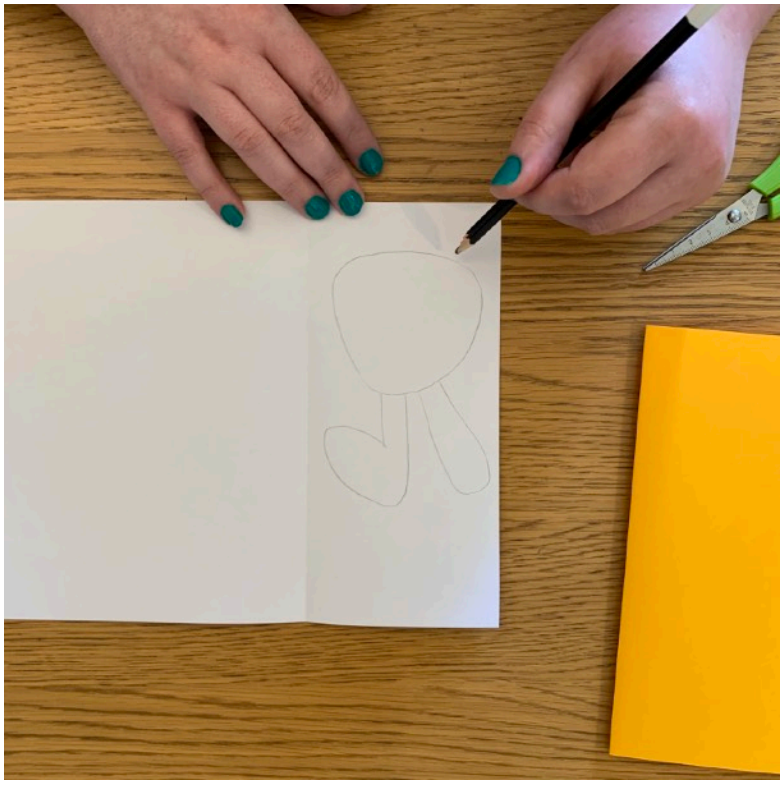

Now you have the body of the pouch you can decorate it - measuring the white paper against see how big the rabbit can be

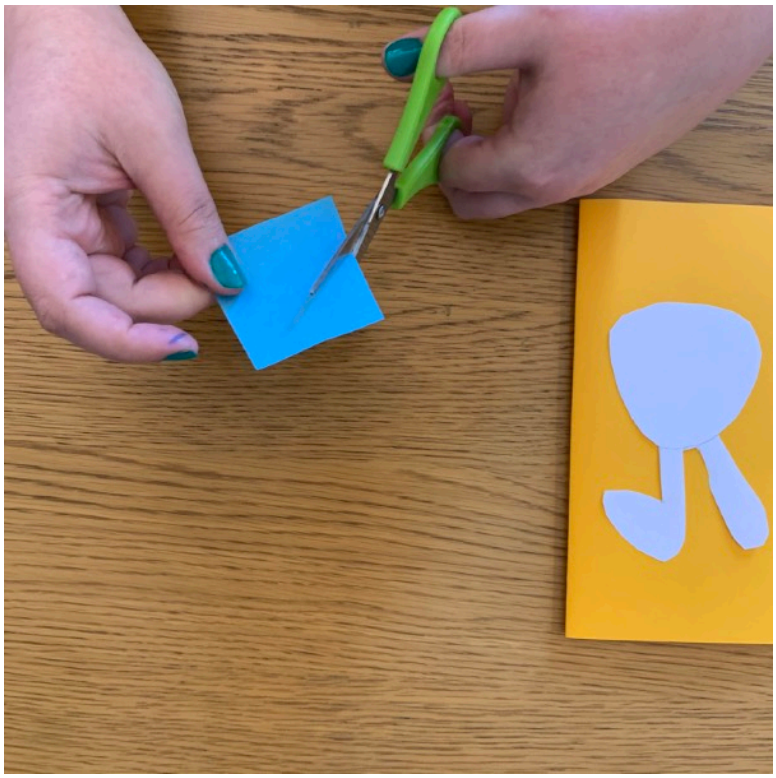

Sketch it out with the space that you have marked with folding it

Cut the bunny out but don’t stick it on yet as you can use it as a guide for measuring, using the blue think about what bits you can decorate. Our bunny is from behind so we’ve created one inner ear and a tail, you can do a different view!

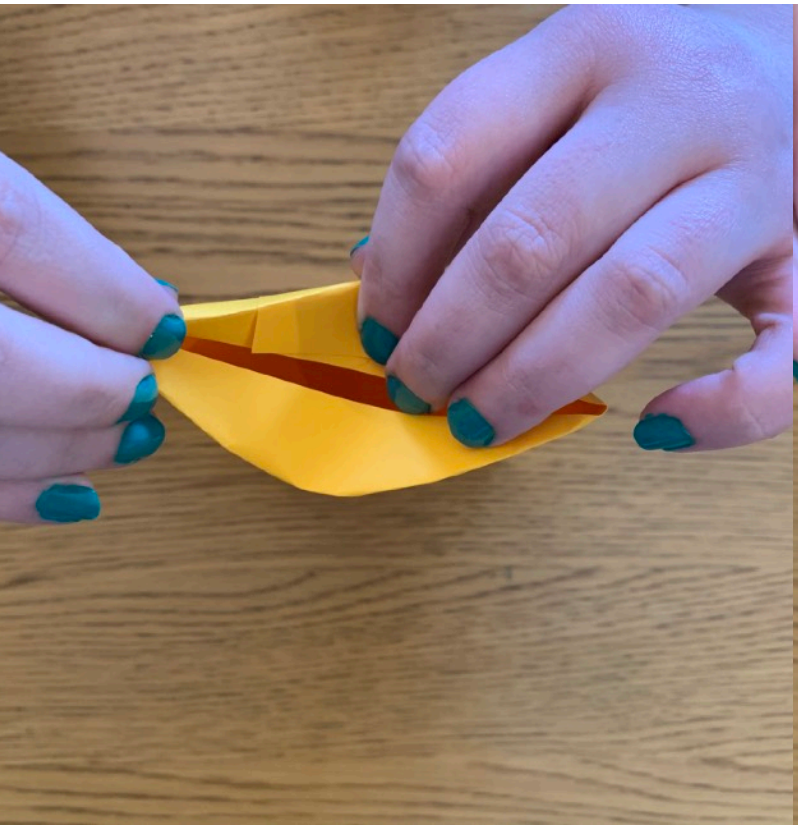

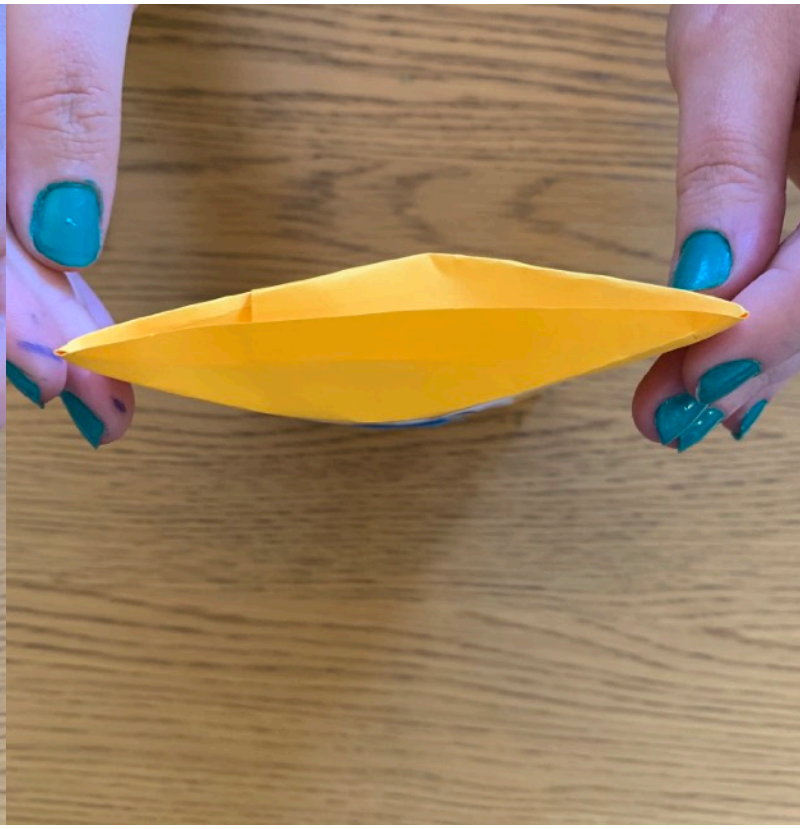

Now is the trickiest part folding it into the pouch so pushing the sides gently to open it into an oval, the push the tops of the paper down and they should fold in like so
