Galaxy Skies

This is a fun way to try and recreate the amazing galaxy in a mixed media artwork combining chalk pastels and paint!

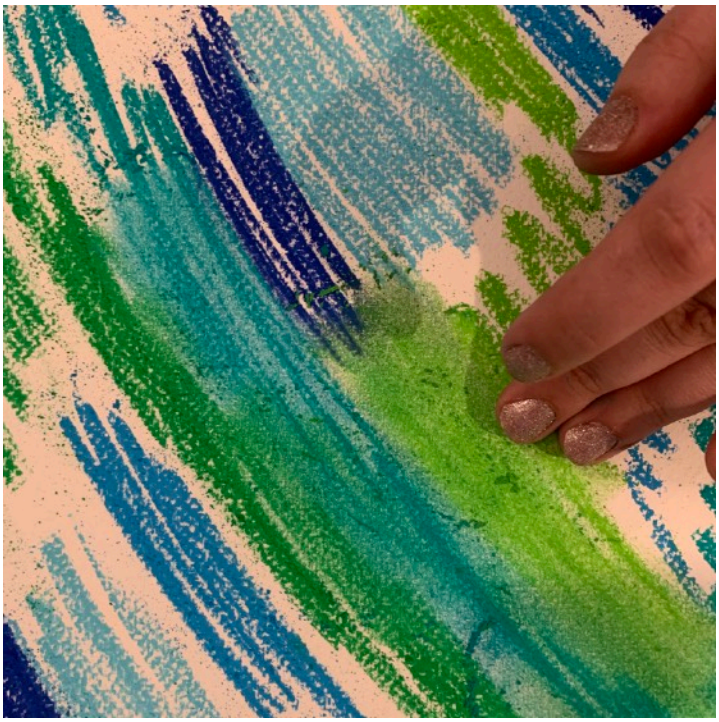

Tools and Materials:

- Paper
- Chalk Pastels
- White acrylic or poster paint
- Paintbrush
- Water pot
- Newspaper/plastic to protect the table!

First of all to create your background thinking about the galaxy its a wonderful swirl/explosion of magical colours - you can look up pictures or you can make one up from you imagination like we have. We just thought blues and greens would look fun! Using the chalk pastel more on the flat side start filling in patches of colour like so, then blend with fingers to fill in the bits of white

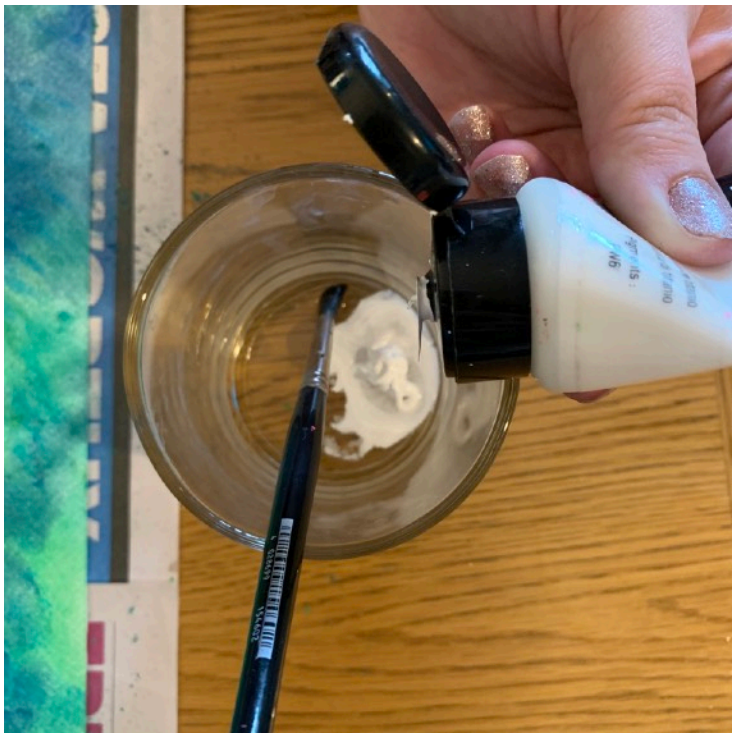

You can add more colours on top where you want them

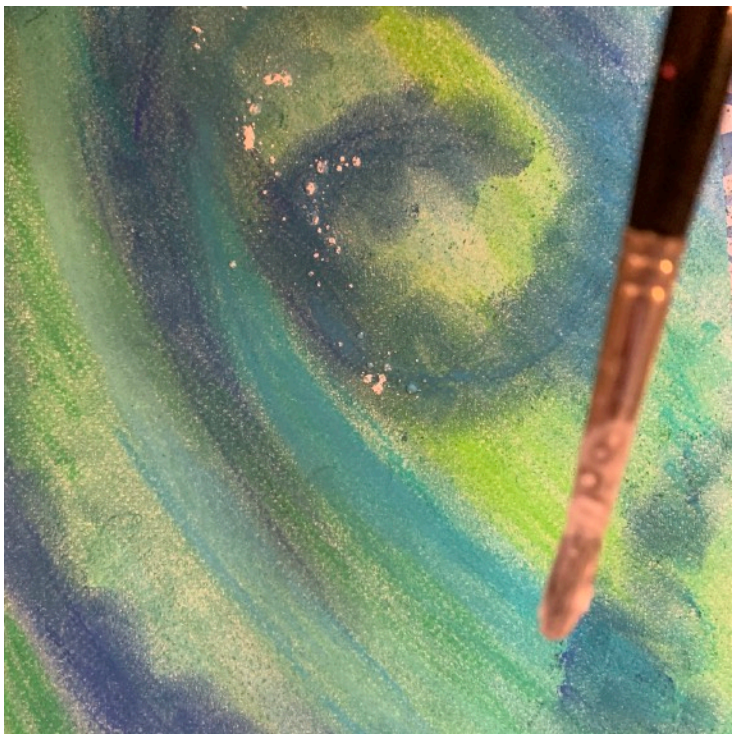

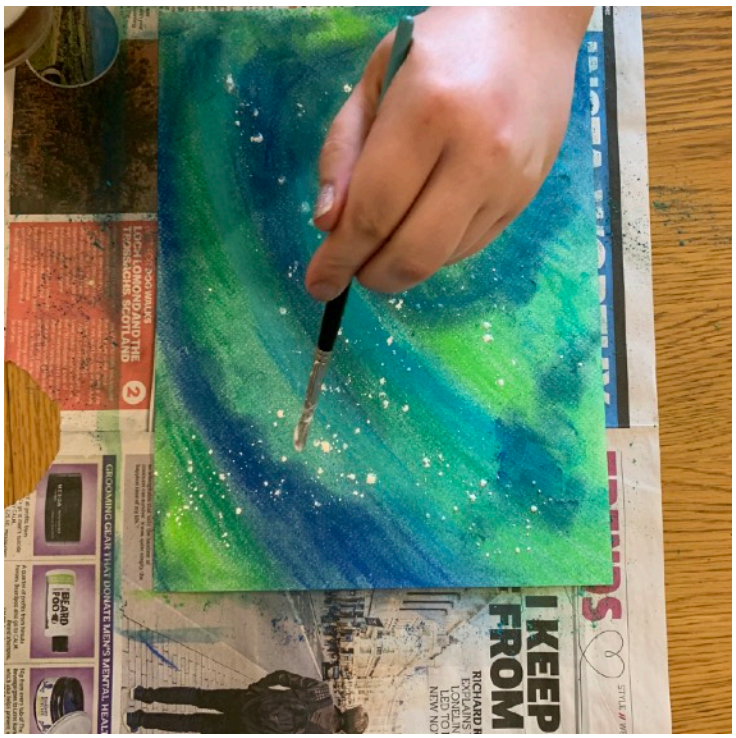

Once you are happy with your background you can add the stars! To do this take some of your paint, put it in your water pot and add water to make it runny. It needs to be runny so you can flick it more easily!

Then you can flick it - make sure you've put something down to protect the table from the paint! If you hold the paintbrush with one hand you can tap it with the other to control the spatter a bit more

And there you have it your very own “Galaxy Sky” - if you want you can spray it with hairspray to keep the chalk pastels on the paper better!
