Shape Poems

This is a fun way to create not just an image - but imagery through your words combining Art and poetry

Tools and Materials:

- Paper
- Felt Tips
- Pencil

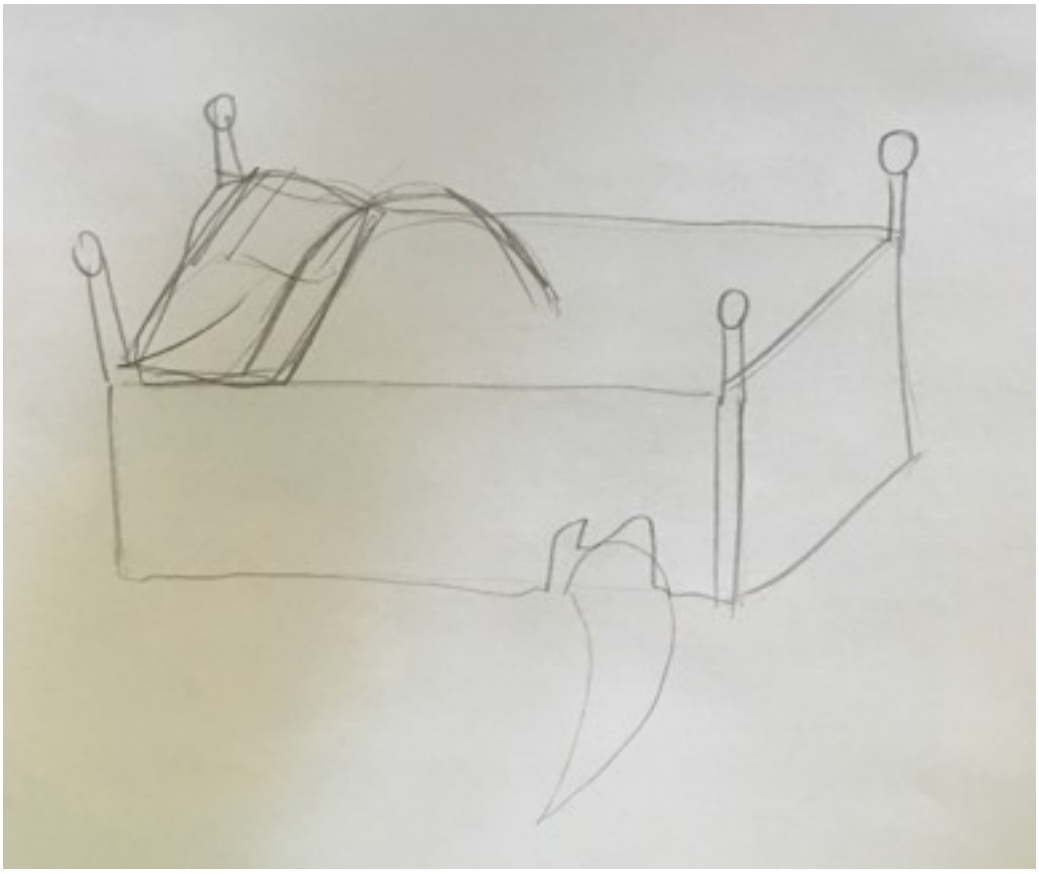

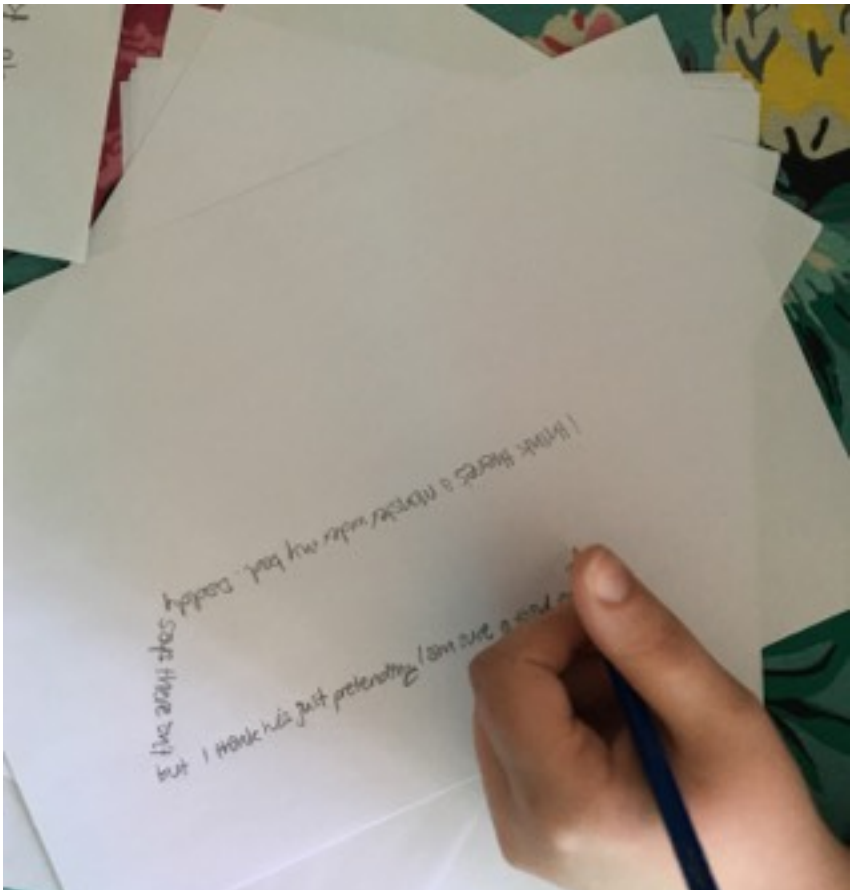

First of all think what you want to write about? An animal, fairy, garden or even a monster? We wanted to write about a monster under the bed - so start jotting down your ideas on a rough paper to help you plan out your poem!

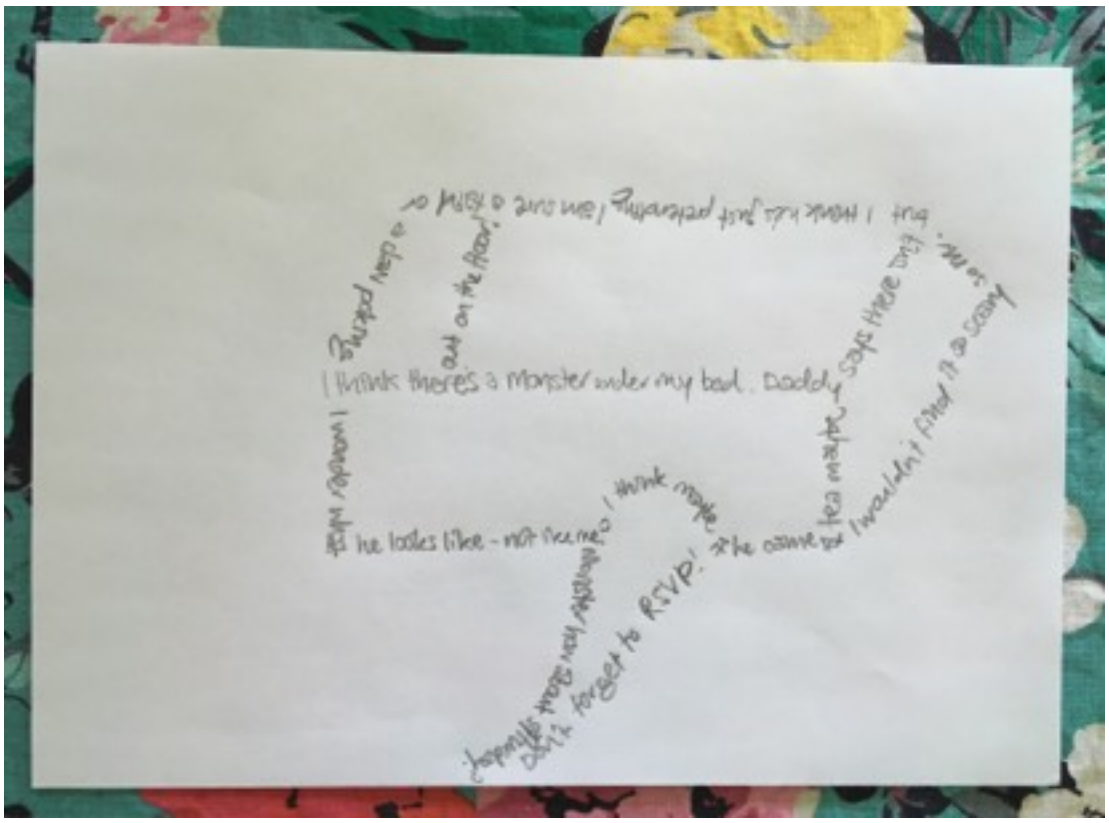

I think there's a monster under my bed. Daddy says there isn't but I think he's just pretending. I am sure I saw a tail off or a claw poking out on the floor! I wonder what he looks like - not like me? I think maybe if he came for tea maybe I wouldn't find it so scary! So Mr. Monster how about Saturday? Don't forget to RSVP

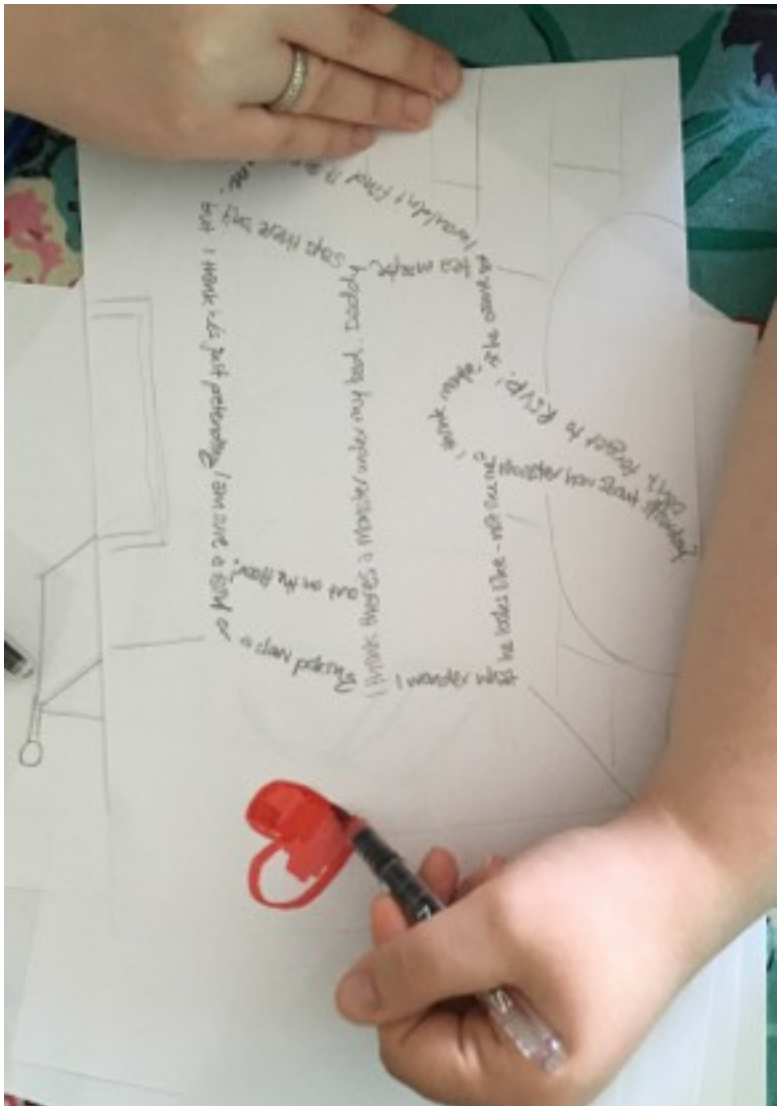

So what shape should your poem be - depending on what you wrote about the possibilities are endless! Because we did a monster under the bed we thought a bedroom scene would be good; again using your rough bit of paper sketch out what shape you think will work

Once you have finished writing up your poem you can add more details in the background too!

And there you have it your very own shape poem!
