No1 Dad Trophy

To celebrate Fathers Day why not create your own trophy - you can customise this for anyone who is No1 to you!

Tools and Materials:

- Coloured Paper or Card
- Scissors
- Pencil
- Sellotape

First of all you need to cut your paper to be the right size for the body of the trophy, we used another piece of paper as a straight edge you can of course use a ruler if you like! We cut our paper at roughly  $\frac{1}{2}$  -  $\frac{1}{3}$  of the whole paper

Take your piece of paper you cut and roll it up - you won't need the whole length so roll it to the width you want and mark where to cut with your finger like so

Roll your paper back up and tape it where the ends meet to secure it into a tube shape

Now to make the base of your trophy - draw round the bottom of your tube - careful not to push in the sides whilst doing it

From your large circle to the inner circle cut all the way round as if making petals like so

Now you have your base you can put it in your tube, use a pencil to push it down to the bottom

Once it is fully pushed down you can tape it, you can tape it from the inside to make it look neater but if it's too hard to reach then you can tape it on the outside like so

Now to make the stem of your trophy, exactly like the body but smaller - use your leftover paper, cut, roll and attach

So you have the body and stem of your trophy - now for a base so it can balance! Draw out any shape you like - we chose a star because they are fun, cut it out and attach to stem like so

So now you have a basic trophy you can add handles and decorations to transform it into a No1 trophy!

Attach all the bits you have cut out - we found the handles easiest if you bend them back on themselves as it looks more like actual trophy handles

And there you have it your very own No1 Dad Trophy!
