Who Am I?

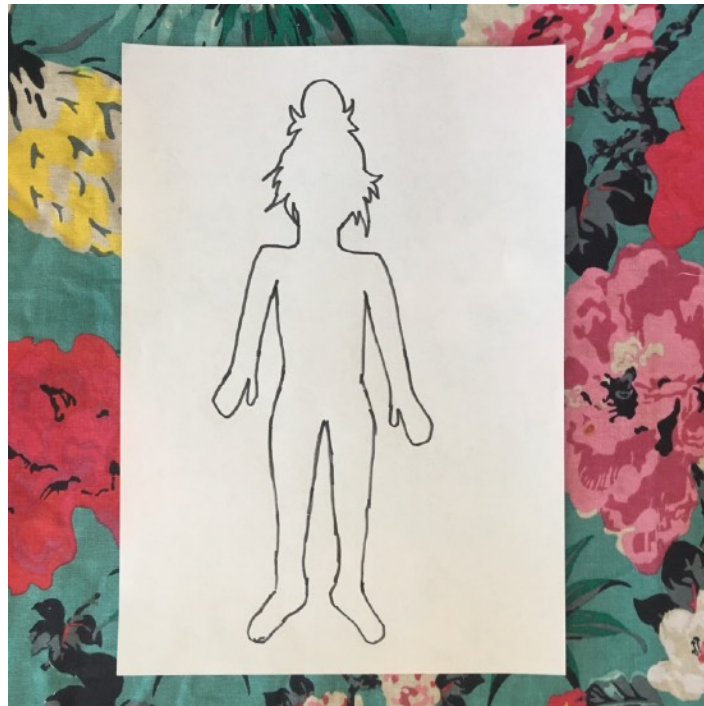

This is a fun way to create a portrait of yourself without putting in your features - more the things that you feel represent you! If you have enough paper and space why not do a life size one getting a friend, sibling or parent to draw round you to create your outline!

Tools and Materials:

- Paper
- Felt Tips

We drew miniature silhouettes - however if you have the space life-size ones are really good fun! You can do it with friends and family as they can help to draw around you. Once you have your silhouette - life-size or miniature then you can think what to fill it with, what things represent you, interest you or simply make you happy?

Start to add them in to create a you filled with all the things that make you you!

Colour in all of your design till you are happy with it!

And there you have it your very own "Who Am I?" Drawing

Here is another we have created to inspire you!
