

Watercolour:Animals

We love watercolour and thought this was a great way to play around with creating animals - especially ones with patterns because of the way it blends! What animals do you know?

Tools and Materials:

- Watercolour Paper or any thick paper will do
- Watercolours
- Paintbrush

So because watercolour dries pretty quickly we thought it would be fun to draw with the paint straight away in stead of pencil! You do have to work a bit faster but it is fun to experiment! All you need to do is think what animal you want to create and paint.

The great thing with watercolour is you can layer it up and add more to it - by adding water on top of a dry colour you can make another colour like the brown for the spots have softer edges! You can add as much or as little detail as you like we just wanted to hint at the animal

And there you have it your very own watercolour animal!
